

Dick Person

Dick Person has worked as a park ranger, conservation officer, guide, professional skier, mountaineer, avalanche control officer, and educator. Dick has over 30 years' experience guiding in wilderness areas across North America. His guiding expertise includes canoeing, backpacking, mountaineering, x-c skiing, fishing, hunting, and tipi living. He has also lived in tipis for seventeen years in the foothills of Alberta and the Yukon Territory.

Since 1987, Dick Person has given presentations on various aspects of wilderness life and travel, to many audiences in Canada and the United States. His presentations have included slide shows, lectures, weekend and week-long field trips. He has shared his interesting and unique adventures with university classes, Arctic research organizations, community colleges, museums, private schools, environmental groups, recreation departments, and sports groups. Dick enjoys sharing his experiences of his mountain life and travels.

Dick is also an accomplished photographer. His photographs have been used as magazine cover shots, in adventure travel articles, and as posters for adventure equipment companies.

He has received his B.A. degree from the University of Minnesota with majors in zoology and geology. Dick has done post graduate work at the University of Missouri in Wildlife Management.
